

Navy Again Set To Send Up a Vanguard

CAPE CANAVERO, Fla. (UP) — The Navy Vanguard rocket was reported "in the best shape ever" today for launching with a tiny test satellite in its nose.

But officials of the Navy and the Vanguard rocket, which builds the slender rocket, did not say just what they expected to send the Vanguard aloft, a third time carrying a 6.4-inch moon.

"Minor technical difficulties" that brought postponement of Friday's Vanguard launching attempt apparently had been remedied. But other last minute troubles could crop up to again delay the shot.

Bad weather also could hold up the Vanguard launching until next week. The forecast for today was for scattered showers and broken clouds over the launching site. But winds — always a problem — were expected to be only moderate.

"We feel we're in the best shape we have ever been in," one Vanguard source said Friday night.

But this did not mean Navy men consider chances higher for putting the grapefruit-sized satellite in orbit with the Army's Explorer I and the Russian Sputnik II. The rocketeers are interested primarily this time in seeing their 72-foot rocket fly successfully — or finding out why it does not.

What Could a Special Meet Accomplish?

By LLOYD HOLBECK
United Press Staff Correspondent

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — If Gov. Orval Faubus calls a special session of the legislature this summer to prevent a recurrence of the Central High crisis next September, what would the legislature be asked to do?

That question in itself may be the reason the governor has not called a special meeting of the solons. There is not much choice for them, according to an attorney interested in school segregation cases.

One thing the legislature could do, with the vote of the people would be to abolish any school district which is integrated by a federal court order, the attorney said.

"But that would mean the kids wouldn't get an education — either black or white," he said.

Local Vote

Or the constitution could be amended, again by the vote of the legislature and the people, or just by the people themselves through an election called by an initiative, so that the local districts could vote on whether to integrate the schools. Texas has that system now, and at least one district has integrated after a referendum.

"That's not a permanent solution, though," the lawyer said, "because it would still be unconstitutional. It would still mean schools would be segregated according to color."

He suggested that Arkansas consider a plan already under active study in Louisiana. That is for the state to abolish public schools and instead give each child of school age tuition to attend a private school.

Complicated Step

It would be extremely complicated to take such a step, the lawyer cautioned.

"Most of the school districts are bonded up to their ears, and the state would have to assume the obligation of the bonds."

"But most of the bonds are callable on maturity, which means the state wouldn't have to pay off right away. The state could go ahead and collect the millage it does now and use the money to pay for the bonds and tuition."

Private individuals or groups would have to be found to take over the schools and run them. Another complicating factor.

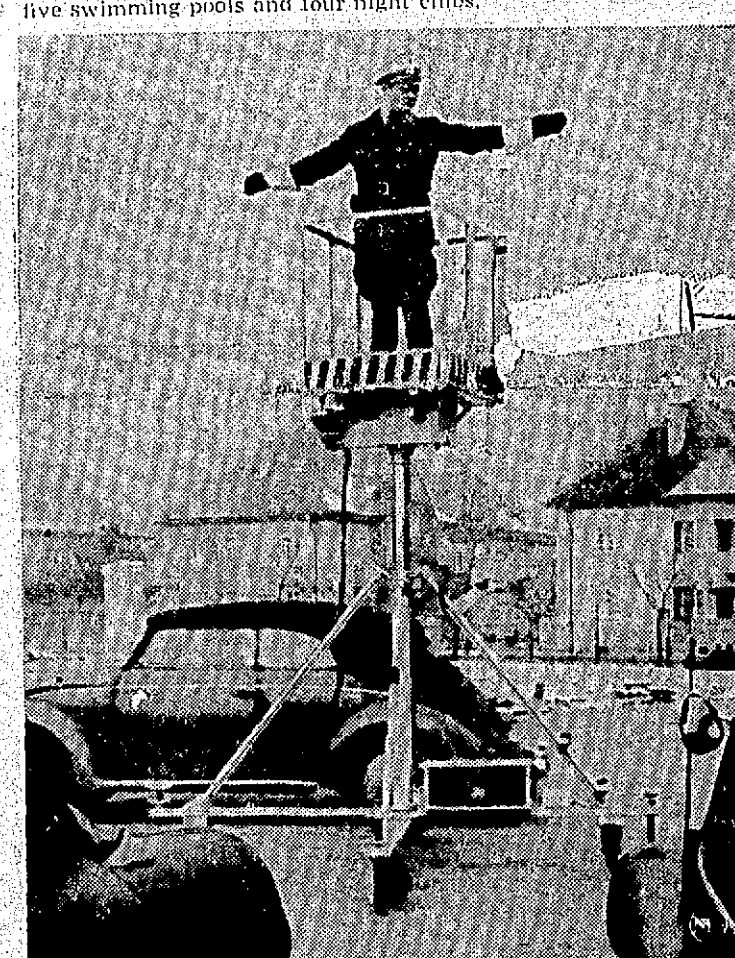

The attorney believes the private school plan would be upheld by the Supreme Court. He explained that the court has said it will not interfere in disputes between individuals, as long as any agency of the state government, including the courts, are not involved. But once the matter gets into any court or is controlled in any way by the state, the court may enter the case.

Equal Facilities

The Supreme Court of course could reverse its ruling that equal facilities are required.

ON THE BEACH IN WAIKIKI—This 2,000-room hotel, The Hawaiian Village at Waikiki Beach in Honolulu, stands as a monument to a turned down request for space. Back in 1953, millionaire Henry J. Kaiser, chairman of the board of Kaiser Industries Corporation, was turned down on his request for a reservation at the Ikonohuli hotel where he usually stayed. So Kaiser built his own hotel. Eight hundred rooms are now open with the rest to be ready by 1959. The grounds include five swimming pools and four night clubs.

News Good, Bad Around the World

The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet.

The United States and Soviet Russia jockeyed for position this week on conditions for a "summit" conference on world tensions.

Russia proposed that a meeting on foreign ministers be held in Geneva in April to prepare for a summit conference in June at which President Eisenhower would meet Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles rejected the Russian terms for a foreign ministers' conference. Russia wants the foreign ministers limited to discussing a program for the big meeting.

Eisenhower and Dulles want the foreign ministers to go into the substance of East-West issues and thus make sure that a summit meeting would have a real chance of success.

Curfew Will Be Enforced at Fort Smith

PORT SMITH (UP) — The Sebastian county grand jury Wednesday recommended a curfew law for Fort Smith that would subject parents to fines should their children violate the proposed ordinance.

In its report to Circuit Judge Paul Wolfe, the jury recommended a curfew law for all youths 17 years of age and under. It recommended the curfew be 10:30 p. m. Sunday through Thursday and 12:30 a. m. on Friday and Saturday through the year.

The recommendation came at the end of the sixth session of the jury in its study of the juvenile problem and concluded five weeks of investigation.

The grand jury stressed its members do not condemn the majority of all youth as juvenile delinquents. The jury said, however, the record of 175 hearings indicated a need for the restraint of opportunity to commit juvenile transgressions and to establish a basis for the reassertion of control.

The jury recommended the city commission repeal a present ordinance known as a curfew law and adopt a new one. The present ordinance has not been enforced in recent years.

The grand jury conducted five hearings in which 82 persons were interviewed. Testimony revealed the report said that there exist such acts as petty theft, teenage preparation of malicious mischief and vandalism, widespread drink

British Act to Protect Royalty

LONDON (UP) — Security measures for protecting members of Britain's royal family were expected to be reviewed today because of the invasion of Princess Margaret's residence by a demented man.

The man, about 30, got into the grounds of Clarence House by climbing a back garden wall. He fought his way through police and army guards into the palace to the roof of the three-story mansion.

Police finally overpowered him. Later, he was moved from the police station to a mental hospital for observation. Under normal procedures in which such cases are handled, he never will appear in court and probably will remain untried.

Court sources said Margaret was not disturbed by the ruckus. It was reported, however, that she peeked through the window drapes as the man was taken away.

National Merit Scholarship Tests Planned

Of interest to every college-bound high school student in America is the qualification test of the National Merit Scholarship Program. Dr. John Stalnaker, Director, announced today in Evanston, Illinois, solemn new values of the 1958-1959 Merit Scholarship Program.

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation administers the nation's largest independently supported college scholarship program for high school students. In the 1957-1958 academic year it provided more than $5,000,000 worth of four-year scholarships. The amount of the scholarship is determined by financial need, and they are renewable annually without further competitive examination. Dr. Stalnaker stated that this national program, which embraces all U. S. territories and possessions, sends thousands of deserving students to college.

Students whose unusual talents might otherwise be wasted due to their inability to finance the increasing cost of higher education. The 1958-1959 testing program is designed to provide more service to participating students and schools. While it will still serve primarily as a preliminary screening instrument to select thousands of scholarship winners, the program has several new and important guidance and educational planning features. Those additional benefits will be best realized by testing at the end of the junior year rather than at the start of the senior year. These new values are such that many students will want to take the test for purposes of educational or vocational planning, even though they do not expect to win a scholarship. Dr. Stalnaker stated.

T-Tests Have Guidance Value

All students will receive a report of their scores. These test results will enable students to understand their present academic strengths and weaknesses, will give them facts with which to plan their senior year, will help them decide about going to college, and will enable them to select college courses of study in which they are most likely to succeed.

Eligibility Requirements

All high school students in their senior year.

Local Theater Literally Going to Dogs

Hope's Saenger Theater literally went to the dogs Saturday morning and the absolute star of the movie the youngsters saw was none other than a dog, "Old Yeller."

Manager Henry Seamon's let the kids bring their dogs — long ones, short ones, tall ones, high society but mostly just plain dogs — to the Saenger as guests at a special showing of the latest Walt Disney movie which is the story of a boy and his dog.

Actually, it was the other way around. The masters were guests of their pets, for any child bringing a dog was admitted free, providing the dog was properly leashed.

There were more than a few clashes of personality but it all went surprisingly well. Most of the dogs kept their eyes glued to the screen as if to see how their hero met every situation in protecting his young master. Of course, some of the dogs just "slept the whole thing off." And there were instances when the dogs shared popcorn with their masters — which they deserved for the price of admission they saved.

At least during the show the dogs were surprisingly well-mannered. Afterwards? What do you think?

U.S. Expecting Concessions From Russians

By DONALD J. GONZALES
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — U.S. officials said today Russia will have more concessions if it really wants an East-West summit meeting.

They said Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's latest letter to President Eisenhower, delivered to the White House Thursday and made public in Moscow Friday, does nothing to break what the President has described as the "impasse" of the proposed summit talks.

Eisenhower planned to confer today with Undersecretary of State Christian A. Herter, presumably about the new Bulgarian message.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles left Washington Friday to attend the Southern Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting in Manila. French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd also will be there and will hold private talks with Dulles on the summit issue.

Allies urge Softness

The British and French officials are expected to urge Dulles to take a softer attitude in developing U. S. proposals for dealing with Russia at the conference table. Dulles feels that American policy is neither hard nor soft but "realistic."

The White House and the State Department declined official comment on Bulgarian's letter. Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said he had "nothing to say."

But diplomats said privately they found nothing new in the message except an agreement by Bulgaria that Russia and the United States exchange "leaders of thought and influential citizens," a proposal made by Eisenhower.

The main points in Bulgarian's latest letter were these: —Russia still refuses to discuss the status of Soviet satellites and the problem of German reunification, at a summit meeting, two points the United States has insisted must be on the agenda. But it remains willing to discuss a German peace treaty.

Spain Talks With U.S.

It will discuss the President's proposal for an agreement on control of outer space but only if this is linked to "the closing down of foreign military bases."

It will discuss further development of East-West contacts.

It still favors a treaty of friendship and cooperation with the United States. Dulles considers this unnecessary since both nations are signatories to the United Nations Charter.

Junior Play Cast Picked by Director

After a long wait the Junior play cast was announced recently. The play "Lena Rivers" is a modern version of Mary J. Holmes' old tale. The play will be presented March 13-14.

To those of you who don't know the story, it deals with young, beautiful Lena Rivers (Sandra Hobbs) and Granny Nichols (Brenda Hamm) plighted as they are compelled to leave their New England home and seek refuge with Granny Nichols son (Jimmy Fazio) who has changed the family name to Livingston because of the social aspirations of his wife, Matilda (Sue Moore).

Arriving in Kentucky, Lena and Granny Nichols are subject to the kind of treatment often given poor relations. Mrs. Livingston insists that her husband's relatives live in a small room separated from the big house, formerly used to house servants. She and her daughter, Caroline (Nancy Frazier) tremble with fear at the thought of their socialite and wealthy friends meeting the awkward country girl and Granny Nichols.

While Caroline and Mrs. Livingston snub Lena and Granny, the younger Livingstones, Anna (Kay Gresham) and John Jr. (Dennis Paddock) become their friends and champion their cause. There is also one of Caroline's friends who sees Lena's potential worth. Durward Belmont (Billy Butler) is a Durward whom Mrs. Livingston plans to marry her daughter, Caroline. Durward becomes enamored of Lena and starts to pay attention to her, much to the astonishment of the wealthy Livingstones who do everything they can to place Lena in a false position.

Lena aids Anna in her romance with Malcolm Everett (Don Bogher). In the last act, when it looks as though Lena will lose Durward, she steps in and proves once more her worth and the disappointment at the end of the play is startling indeed.

Changes Are Slow But Definite Under the City Manager Plan

The city of Hope was described as "dragging its municipal feet" before the new city government became effective last October with the arrival of Garland G. Medders, Hope's first city manager.

In the short time that he has headed the operations of the city government, Garland Medders has corrected the street improvement districts, has improved the municipal accounting system, and has eliminated political interference with city departments.

Under his guidance, one of the finest city recreation programs in the state has been made even better by putting it all under one director, Charles Gough. One man is in charge of trash and garbage collections now, too. He is Jewell May, a former Hope fireman.

Picking up refuse from business houses has been confined to nights, relieving the equipment for residential use during the day. Wet garbage is no longer taken as far away as previous trips necessitated, thereby making more time available for collections. And plans are being made for still better service, with the co-operation of all citizens in wrappings all wet garbage in paper.

Recently, city officials met with a representative of the University of Arkansas to discuss setting up a planning and zoning commission. The university will act as a consulting agent in this proposed work and the federal government will give financial assistance up to one-half the cost, according to Mr. Medders.

Problems of traffic, firefighting equipment, overhead water storage, more water mains, and improper drainage are among the difficulties to be worked out in the near future.

The city manager would also like to have training for all city employees. This would either be in the form of local instruction or special discussion groups or special classes, training such as that offered by the University of Arkansas to members of sewer departments and water works.

When Wire Products of Holland, Michigan, selected Hope as the site of its recent expansion, the fact that the town had a city manager spoke well for its far-sighted look to the future and played a big part in the industry owners' decision to locate here.

This is the sixth month that Garland Medders has been the City Manager of Hope. He has been in the city manager field since 1939, and has proven himself to be well qualified for the job.

The month of March symbolizes the Month of Progress with the people of Hope can experience in the future under a city management form of government.

Rain Seen for Arkansas on Weekend

By UNITED PRESS

The recent is on the rain in Arkansas today — past, present and future.

Precipitation was heavy in parts of the state Thursday and Friday night, light drizzle was reported in some sections today, and the forecast calls for more rain during the next 36 hours.

Durandelle bore the brunt of the rainfall Thursday, measuring 2.10 inches. Glenwood had 1.80, Danville 1.77, Morrilton 1.55, Heber Springs 1.50, Newport 1.40, and Batesville 1.30.

Rainfall in lesser amounts was general over the state.

The forecast said it would be mostly cloudy and mild with scattered showers and thundershowers this afternoon, becoming widely scattered tonight and Saturday. Sunday will continue cloudy to partly cloudy with scattered showers.

Highs this afternoon will be in the high 50's to mid 60's, lows to night in the mid 40's to mid 50's, and highs Saturday in the mid 50's to mid 60's. The high in Arkansas Thursday was 63 at Batesville, the low today 43 at Flippin and Mountain Home.

The extended forecast, Friday through next Wednesday, said temperatures would average three to six degrees above the normal maximum of 61 and the normal minimum of 46. Little change is expected in temperature until it turns colder after the weekend. Precipitation will be generally heavy through the weekend.

Light rain was expected at several places during the morning, but it had dwindled to a drizzle at Flippin and Memphis by 11 a. m. Skies were cloudy or partly cloudy throughout the state. Walnut Ridge had 46 degrees, Flippin 48, Memphis and Fort Smith 51, Little Rock 55, Fayetteville and Pine Bluff 57, and El Dorado 60.

An outstanding beef cattle colored film, "The Hereford Heritage" will be shown through the courtesy of the American Hereford Association. The film shows the development of the beef cattle industry in America with many practices that should be of interest to many Hempstead County cattlemen.

Johnson Lines Up Help for Job Money

WASHINGTON (UP) — A Democratic-led drive to pump more Federal funds into job-making public works snowballed today. The administration appeared to be moving in the same direction but less strongly.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) lined up heavy Republican as well as solid Democratic support or two resolutions calling on the administration to order immediate steps in civil and military public works projects or which Congress already has provided money.

Johnson introduced the resolutions Thursday. He told the Senate he does not "think we are far from the edge of depression." But he said "God helps those who help themselves and we will not solve our problems if we merely shut our eyes."

No Sponsor in Knowland

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Cal.) said he did not plan to join 18 other GOP senators who have become cosponsors of the Johnson resolutions. He said he thought the Senate Armed Services and public works committees "should hold hearings on the resolutions and should call witnesses from the executive branch of the government."

Knowland pointed out that Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton has promised to announce Tuesday a list of public works projects under his department which can be accelerated.

Before offering his resolutions, Johnson scheduled early Senate action on an anti-recession housing program and farm legislation. He also renewed his call for establishment of a Public Works Administration to handle building programs.

In the House, Democratic Leader John W. McCormack (Mass.) introduced resolutions matching Johnson's, Johnson said Speaker.

Expelled Girl Takes Case to Court

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — The father of a 16-year-old girl expelled from integrated Central High School went into circuit court today seeking her reinstatement.

Little Rock attorney Amis Guthridge filed a petition for a writ of mandamus for Jay D. Parker, on behalf of Sammie Dean Parker, who was expelled last Feb. 23. She had been suspended for carrying a card reading "One down—eight to go," referring obviously to the expulsion of one of the nine Negro students who integrated the school last September.

The suit named as defendants R. Virgil Blossom, Principal W. Matthews, Assistant Principal Mrs. Elizabeth Huckabee, and members of the school board. The petition also served notice that Monday the student's father would ask the court for an interlocutory order readmitting her immediately and that the case be heard on its merits within seven days.

The petition claimed the girl was expelled without "any just or legal cause or reason." It said also that the school officials "arbitrarily abused their discretion, and that if the expulsion is not corrected, it will result in irreparable damages" to the students, and that it is already damaging the Parker girl in that it is retarding her efforts to get an education.

Group to End Hearings About Dairy Business

United Press Staff Correspondent

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP) — A House small business subcommittee today was scheduled to wind up three days of hearings that have brought apparent conflicting stories on who — or what — causes severe financial troubles in the dairy industry.

Most witnesses appearing before the committee so far, including small independent dairy men and representatives of national concerns, have agreed that milk price wars have made the dairy industry "unhealthy" in the past two years in Missouri and Kansas.

Representatives of five of six major firms alleged to have discriminated in prices in efforts to destroy competition denied the charges in testimony before the committee yesterday.

The sixth firm, the Adams Dairy of Blue Springs, Mo., meanwhile was presenting still other apparently conflicting testimony before a senate antitrust subcommittee in Washington.

Representatives of the House subcommittee in Kansas City said they hoped officials of the Adams Dairy could appear before it in the final day of hearings today.

How Adams told the subcommittee in Washington yesterday that a price war at Kansas City last September was sparked by the National Dairy Products Co. (Santitas) and other national dealers. He said the Adams family had been "warned" that National was going to "fix" Adams.

However, David Stewart, general manager for National at Kansas City, when asked by the House committee if he had ever offered milk or ice cream at below market prices, replied "no, we haven't and won't."

Rep. Tom Slead (D-Okla.), chairman of the House committee said it was incline only on fact finding to see if stronger antitrust laws were needed but said the testimony gathered would be turned over to the Justice Department for possible criminal prosecution.

Besides Stewart, major dairy representatives appearing before the committee in Kansas City yesterday were J. M. O'Brien, district manager for the Foremost Dairies; A. R. Augenstein, Kansas City manager for the Borden Co.; Carl Peterson, representing country club dairy products and Glenn Meyer, general manager of the Meyer Saniitary Milk Co.

All five denied that their firms initiated price wars in efforts to squeeze out competition but said they at times had to cut prices to a "ridiculous level" to meet competition.

Peterson and Phillips said at times they were forced to sell milk below cost, especially during a price war at Kansas City early in February when prices were slashed by more than half.

An independent dairyman, Robert J. Chapman of the Beverly Farms Dairy, Lee's Summit, Mo., told the committee Thursday that if the ruinous price wars were not stopped, he would be out of business within six months. Other small independent dairymen presented similar testimony, previous to denials of allegations by the five major companies yesterday.

Churches Drop Differences to Unite in Fight

Religious News
By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press Staff Correspondent

American churches are soft-pedaling their ancient differences over temperance in order to wage common war against alcoholism.

They are learning that they can work together against excessive use of alcohol without necessarily seeing eye-to-eye on the morality of moderate drinking.

All Christian bodies teach that temperance is a virtue and that drunkenness is a sinful abdication of the power of self-control.

But for generations, there have been two sharply conflicting schools of thought about what temperance means.

Some denominations, like the Methodists and Baptists, have held that it means total abstinence from alcoholic beverages.

Others, like the Catholics and Episcopalians, have held that it means being temperate—that is, restricting consumption to appropriate times and places, and to quantities that will not produce intoxication.

Neither of these viewpoints has been abandoned. But there is a strong tendency among churches to declare a truce in the dispute about moderate drinking and stress their universal concern about the spreading blight of alcoholism.

Adopts Policy
Last month, for the first time in its history, the National Council of Churches adopted an official policy statement on the alcohol problem. It was endorsed by representatives of 34 denominations who sit on the council's general board.

The statement was notably devoid of the self-righteous tone which once characterized many church pronouncements on the demon rum.

It treated the nation's five million alcoholics, not as moral lepers, but as sufferers who desperately need the "healing ministry" of the Christian Church.

"We recognize that once drinking has passed a certain point, it becomes alcoholism, an affliction which cannot be met effectively by the unaided efforts of the victims," the church leaders said.

"We recognize the complex origins of alcoholism and excessive drinking in social pressures, emotional instability, bodily functioning and the nature of alcohol itself."

Accepts Differences
The statement acknowledged "differences of conscientious conviction" on whether the prevention of alcoholism requires total abstinence or legal prohibition of the sale of alcoholic beverages.

But it said that even those churches which regard all drinking as evil have an obligation to extend competent and sympathetic help to alcoholics and their families.

"Alcoholics are persons in need of diagnosis, understanding, guidance and treatment. They are especially in need of pastoral care and the divine love which the church can bring them."

The church statement was heartening to groups, such as the National Council of Alcoholism, which have been trying to organize an effective fight against the affliction which now ranks as the nation's number four public health problem.

One authority said its potential impact may be comparable to that of the historic resolution which the American Medical Association adopted in November, 1950. The AMA resolution officially recognized alcoholism as a "treatable disease" and called on all doctors and hospitals to accept alcoholics as patients.

What the AMA said to the medical profession, the National Council of Churches has now said to the ministry.

the armed forces without increasing the overall size of the 1958 budget.

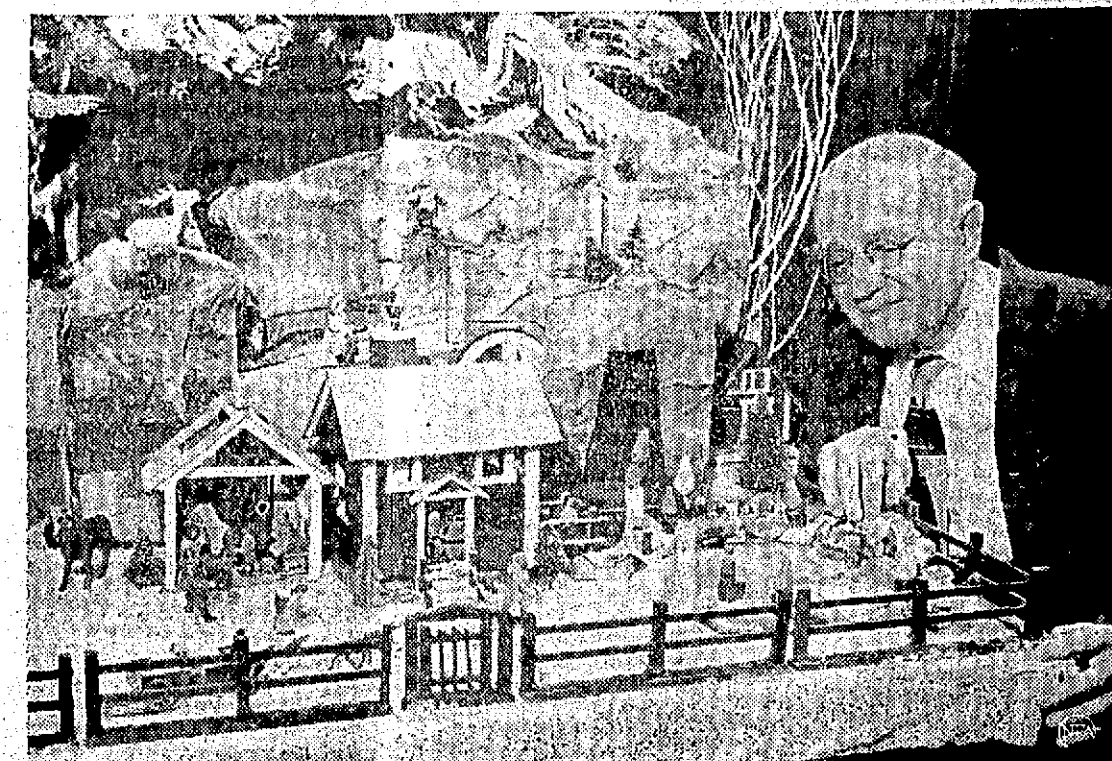

The second vote concerned plans for constitutional reform, designed to make it harder for the National Assembly to overthrow governments and thus to end the incessant series of French cabinet crises.

The sharp disunity in the Arab world was emphasized by allegations of revolutionary plots by various Arab countries against others.

Syria and Egypt asserted that King Saud of Saudi Arabia was implicated in a plot to upset the new Egyptian-Syrian United Arab Republic by assassinating President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt.

RADIO-ACTIVE HOUSEWIFE—Radio research, household duties and farming chores are all part of a day's work for Mrs. Orton Newton, of Phasalia, N.Y. The 50-acre Newton farm is dotted with microwave radio equipment, like the giant antenna which dwarfs the 50-year-old housewife-researcher at right. Mrs. Newton turns the transmitters on, left, by dialing combinations of numbers on a special dial exactly like one on a telephone. She receives her transmission orders from Holmdel, N.J., 171 miles away, where the radio signals are picked up at the Bell Telephone Laboratories' research installation. The project studies the nature of over-the-horizon microwave transmission, used for long-distance signals.

Wesleyan Guild Meets With Frances Bailey

Wesleyan Service Guild members met at the home of Miss Frances Bailey on Monday evening for their regular business and program meeting. Miss Sue Martin was assistant hostess. Bouquets of carnations and Japanese decorated the rooms.

The devotional was given by Miss Lila Grimes. She read scriptures from Matt. 4:23-25, Luke 9:1 and 2 and led the group in repeating "Those Who Care for the Sick" and the "Lord's Prayer." A talk on the Brewster hospital was given by Mrs. Simon Webb. Mrs. Juanita Taylor spoke on the subject, "The March of Missions in Dealing" and concluded her talk with a poem "You Come Too Late."

Mrs. Charlie Thomas, president, presided and appointed the following committee to select officers for the new year: Miss Frances Bailey, chairman; Mrs. Juanita Taylor and Miss Lila Grimes. The group voted to begin a study course in April. Mrs. Muel Chamberlain was named chairman of the life membership committee. Other members of the committee are Mrs. L. O. Lee and Miss Frances Bailey.

second-semester junior year or first semester senior year are eligible to take the test. Students can be enrolled in any public, private, or parochial school in the forty-eight states, the District of Columbia, Alaska, the Canal Zone, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands. The charge for taking the test is $1.00 per student, payable on the examination day—Tuesday, April 29, 1958. (In event of financial hardship, a limited number of students will be tested free. Students should consult their counselor on this matter.) Tests will take place from 9:00 to 12:00 in all participating high schools.

The Testing Agency
Science Research Associates of Chicago, an educational testing, consulting, and textbook publisher, has been retained to construct, administer, and score the scholarship qualifying examination. This company also conducts many other large-scale testing programs, including the Illinois State Scholarship Program, the Selective Service testing program, and the Naval Reserve Officers testing program.

Students are urged to register promptly at the counselor's office—before the March 15th deadline.

It also would provide for loans to states which were currently unable to put up their matching money.

Highway Issue to Be Aired at Hearing

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Albert Gore said today the administration will give its views next week on his latest proposals for stepping up the federal highway program as a boost to employment.

The Tennessee Democrat, chairman of the Senate Roads subcommittee, announced that Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks and Federal Highway Administrator Bertram D. Tallamy will testify at an open hearing Tuesday.

Gore said he hoped they would "bring in a bill of their own" or join in support of a bill he introduced Thursday to step up work on the federal primary and secondary roads and other programs.

"We want to keep this bipartisan if possible," Gore said.

Senate Democrat Whip Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.), testifying in support of increased funds for forest roads, agreed that highway construction "is a matter in which politics has no place."

Gore's latest highway proposal was part of a many-pronged offensive launched this week by Senate Democrats to spur federal

Actress Will Let Child Go to Work

By HAZEL K. JOHNSON
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Actress Jan Sterling switches a switch on the "my child will never become an actor" routine and says there is a good chance her 2-year-old will learn his ABCs from a script.

The blonde dramatic star and her actor husband, Paul Douglas, believe there are too much "fence and prejudice" in both public and private schools. They say that's the main reason why they hope to make a child actor of their son, Adams.

"I said child actor and not child star," the slender young mother said. "And the difference is important."

"As an actor Adams will learn responsibility early. He'll be brought up in an adult world and will learn consideration for others much sooner."

Earnings Put Away
"Of course his earnings would be put in trust—that's where some of the trouble with acting youngsters comes in—when they are made to feel the responsibility of supporting the family."

But besides having the educational advantages of learning in the small classes of a studio or else through tutoring he won't be learning to pull and push other children and won't be subject to the usual race and religion prejudices which are learned so early.

"I know that he has to be subject to these things sometime and that I may sound over-protective."

Prefer's Small Classes
"I'd prefer to have him educated in a studio or in a place like the New York Professional Child's School. He'd gain so much more through the advantage of small classes and also he will get that feeling of being something special."

"My family always made me feel I was exceptional, someone wonderful. I was tutored with the exception of one year in a private girls' school. And even there, although we wore uniforms, there was no prejudice and class distinction."

"I want my child to be protected from this type of thing until he is strong enough and old enough not to let it bother him."

Hope Recalls How Walker Wit Won Raise for New York Mayor

For Jimmy Walker, the colorful and controversial mayor of New York's roaring Twenties, a sense of humor was a two-edged sword. It got him out of as much trouble as it got him in to. The night-life-loving fashion plate, whose stormy story "Beau James," starts Tuesday at the Saenger theater, was often accused of governing the Big Town "by wisecracks," but in his worst predicaments the same glib humor that made him a symbol of irresponsibility charmed his inquisitors into going easy on him.

One of the most famous ad lib artists going today, Bob Hope, plays Walker in the VistaVision Technicolor "Beau James," and no one appreciates the blarney of Jimmy the Jester more than the current master.

Walt Disney 'Old Yeller' Starts Sunday at Saenger

For sheer excitement, few animal scenes in Hollywood history rival the furious bear and dog fight in Walt Disney's "Old Yeller," co-starring Dorothy McGuire and Fess Parker.

Unusual preparation was required to stage this outdoor battle between a 500-pound bear and a 115-pound dog without harming either animal.

Action calls for Old Yeller, the dog, to stand off an enraged bear and thus save his young master's life. It is an electrifying sequence in Disney's story about a tough range dog who protects a pioneer family in frontier Texas.

With the animals' welfare of first consideration, rehearsals for the skilful filming began months ahead of actual filming. Spike, the big trained dog who plays Old Yeller, spent weeks on a leash getting acquainted with Doug, a nine-year-old movie bear owned by professional handler Byron Nelson.

Every businessman

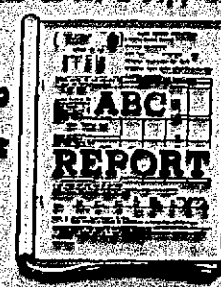

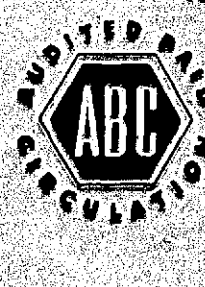

...should expect a full measure

To expect and give an accurate count, weight, or measurement in buying and selling merchandise or services is the foundation of business success. That's true in newspaper advertising, too.

Apply the same know what you get for your money policy in making your advertising investments by using A.B.C. circulation reports. Through the association of this newspaper with the Audit Bureau of Circulations, you are assured of circulation value received for your advertising dollar.

A.B.C. gives you full measurement of circulation facts and figures about the audience for your advertising messages in this newspaper. Ask us for a copy of our latest A.B.C. report.

MIXED EMOTIONS — There seems to be a difference of opinion among the Collins youngsters of Oceanside, N.Y., about how best to blow out the candles as they celebrate their joint birthday party. The children were all born on the same day in different years. For 4-year-old Paul, left, blowing out the candles seems to be a matter of indifference, while Michael, 7, gives it all he's got, and Susan, 2, wants no part of it. They're the children of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Collins.

WORSHIP EVERY SUNDAY IN YOUR FAVORITE CHURCH

YOU NEED THE SPIRITUAL UPLIFT OF A PRAYER-HOUR IN GOD'S HOUSE

ARE YOU COVERING UP

—why the mask? Is the strain of the business world too much? Are you actually that other person?

Why the mask? When caught in the transforming grace of that cover you claim a wonderful appreciation ...the wrinkles soften... your approach is so different. And so it is with your life and mine,— with your strength,— courage,— patience and even with your church. Too often these attributes can be seen only through your mask... friends don't see you as you really are. The true self is translated and reflected through the false cover. Don't be deceived.

Your wrinkles, your outlook on life will never be softened and humanized by a mask.

Please discard it forever. Your better self need ever be reflected from the lower reaches of your soul.

Don't Cover Up!

When Arkansas State College's Indians take the floor tonight in the NCAA Small College Regional
tournament at Springfield, Mo., a 5-6
"mighty mile" from the Missouri
Boothel should be a top attraction.

Even though he gives away as much as a foot in height to a lot of opponents, Jerry Burnett is State's leading scorer. And he's also the team's top man in the assist department.

Using the time - honored two-
handed set shot from around 25
feet, Burnett has a 16-point - a -
game average, despite the fact
he's been available for only spot
duty on several occasions after injuries. He has a 43 per cent goal average.

To folks in the Boothel around
his hometown of Wardell, Burnett's
name means basketball. His name
appeared in the All State Roster
three consecutive years. He averaged 21.5 points a game in four years of competition.

In his senior year, Burnett filled
the baskets at a 33.5 point a night
clip. His highest total was a 56 -
point effort against Braggadocia,

but on another occasion he poured
in 31 in the first half in a small county tournament. He sat out the final half.

After he broke into the A-State
lineup as a freshman last year, he scored 15 points in his debut as a college player. That game was against All - American Win Wil-
fong of Memphis State. Wilfong,
incidentally, is from Puxico, Mo.,
also in the Boothel.

In this, Burnett's sophomore season, he's developed a jump shot
which has enabled him to operate
against the tall lineups so common
in today's game.

The Indians aren't particularly shy in the height department, but
as Coach John Rauth puts it, "why go for the giants when I've got
this guy?"

CHAPTER XXIV

I awoke before Mary, showered
and shaved; shook her awake as I put the coffee on, in a one-
room apartment the order of getting dressed is important if you have to make time. The cut on my face looked better and I covered it with a Band-Aid.

Towelings herself after her shower, Mary called out, "Where are you off to so early?"

"Checking on a few things."

Mary gave me what could have passed for a tiny sneer. "Are you
a big boy, Dave?"

I was too interested in the bankbook to get excited. I poured
the juice and coffee as she slipped into her underwear and
stockings, came over to the bridge
table I'd set up.

"Would I be real grown if I invented a transparent box top, or
a postcard box top, something to delight your Madison Avenue
scouts?"

"Don't start. That postal-card top makes sense, built-in consumer response. Merely tear
off and mail in. . . have to tear
off the top of the box anyway.
Never heard of it being done before. I'll suggest this the next time we have a box-top campaign."

I borrowed a couple of bucks
from Mary before she left.
Washed the dishes. Then I
dressed, wearing a plain conservative tie. I found Dr. Di Maggio on Park Avenue in the phone
book and walked up there.

It was a round-floor apartment in a swank building. A neat-looking brunette nurse opened the door and said, "Dr. Di Maggio's hours are from 11 to -"

"He is in?" I asked, flashing
my badge.

"Why? . . . uh . . . please have
a seat."

Nothing like a badge to make people jump.

The doctor was a little man, sort
of hunched over, and his thick
uncombed gray hair made him
look . . . heavy. He had heavy features that crowded his big face
and there were thick folds of skin
running around his bull neck.

"Dr. Detective Dave Wintano,
2014 Greene Street. Perhaps you read in the papers about an Albert Wales being killed in
the fall."

"We have 18 scripts completed
for 'Lassie,' but no one to play
the little girl," he said. "This much I do know - I won't be playing the part."

"If 'Lassie' and the 'Ark' are on the air next October, along with diagnose it. It will make me a mighty happy man. I have confidence in Noah's Ark and I think I will make the grade this
time."

Much depends on whether Webb
and company can steal away a large segment of the "Lassie"
show.

Indians Play
Tonight in NCAA Meet

By PHIL NEWMAN
United Press Sports Writer

JONESBORO, Ark. (UP)—
When Arkansas State College's Indians take the floor tonight in the NCAA Small College Regional
tournament at Springfield, Mo., a 5-6
"mighty mile" from the Missouri
Boothel should be a top attraction.

Even though he gives away as
much as a foot in height to a lot
of opponents, Jerry Burnett is State's leading scorer. And he's also the team's top man in the assist department.

Using the time - honored two-
handed set shot from around 25
feet, Burnett has a 16-point - a -
game average, despite the fact
he's been available for only spot
duty on several occasions after injuries. He has a 43 per cent goal
average.

To folks in the Boothel around
his hometown of Wardell, Burnett's
name means basketball. His name
appeared in the All State Roster
three consecutive years. He averaged 21.5 points a game in four years of competition.

In his senior year, Burnett filled
the baskets at a 33.5 point a night
clip. His highest total was a 56 -
point effort against Braggadocia,

but on another occasion he poured
in 31 in the first half in a small
county tournament. He sat out the final half.

After he broke into the A-State
lineup as a freshman last year, he
scored 15 points in his debut as
a college player. That game was
against All - American Win Wil-
fong of Memphis State. Wilfong,
incidentally, is from Puxico, Mo.,
also in the Boothel.

In this, Burnett's sophomore season, he's developed a jump shot
which has enabled him to operate
against the tall lineups so common
in today's game.

The Indians aren't particularly
shy in the height department, but
as Coach John Rauth puts it, "why
go for the giants when I've got
this guy?"

CHAPTER XXIV

I awoke before Mary, showered
and shaved; shook her awake as
I put the coffee on, in a one-
room apartment the order of getting dressed is important if you have to make time. The cut on my face looked better and I covered it with a Band-Aid.

Towelings herself after her shower, Mary called out, "Where are
you off to so early?"

"Checking on a few things."

Mary gave me what could have
passed for a tiny sneer. "Are you
a big boy, Dave?"

I was too interested in the bankbook to get excited. I poured
the juice and coffee as she
slipped into her underwear and
stockings, came over to the bridge
table I'd set up.

"Would I be real grown if I invented a transparent box top, or
a postcard box top, something to
scouts?"

"Don't start. That postal-card top makes sense, built-in consumer response. Merely tear
off and mail in. . . have to tear
off the top of the box anyway.
Never heard of it being done before. I'll suggest this the next
time we have a box-top campaign."

I borrowed a couple of bucks
from Mary before she left.
Washed the dishes. Then I
dressed, wearing a plain conservative tie. I found Dr. Di Mag-
gio on Park Avenue in the phone
book and walked up there.

It was a round-floor apartment in a swank building. A neat-
looking brunette nurse opened the door and said, "Dr. Di Maggio's hours are from 11 to -"

"He is in?" I asked, flashing
my badge.

"Why? . . . uh . . . please have
a seat."

Nothing like a badge to make
people jump.

The doctor was a little man, sort
of hunched over, and his thick
uncombed gray hair made him
look . . . heavy. He had heavy
features that crowded his big face
and there were thick folds of skin
running around his bull neck.

"Dr. Detective Dave Wintano,
2014 Greene Street. Perhaps you
read in the papers about an Albert Wales being killed in
the fall."

"We have 18 scripts completed
for 'Lassie,' but no one to play
the little girl," he said. "This
much I do know - I won't be
playing the part."

"If 'Lassie' and the 'Ark' are on
the air next October, along with diagnose it. It will make me a mighty happy man. I have confidence in Noah's Ark and I
think I will make the grade this
time."

Much depends on whether Webb
and company can steal away a

show.

Jack Webb Is Exhuming 'Noah's Ark'

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Jack Webb, TV's Sergeant Friday, has turned grave-digger, exhuming
the remains of "Noah's Ark"—
his only video flop—for another shot at the network.

The "Ark," a pleasant, low-key story about a small-town veterinarian, sank without a trace after 2 weeks on the air.

It will be relaunched May 25 by "popular demand."

The demand: About 60,000 letters addressed to Webb from irate viewers who thought the show should have stayed afloat. This was enough to convince NBC big-wigs that it might survive a second voyage.

"Letters poured in from adults
as well as children . . . from educators, housewives and youth groups," Webb said. "Many protests were in petition form and one—a scroll—was signed by several hundred children at one elementary school."

Show Is Handicapped
Webb's show will buck "Lassie"
on Sunday nights. It is further handicapped in that the first 23
episodes are re-runs.

"Lassie" is rugged competition," Webb admits, "but when we first went on the air our opposition was 'Wyatt Earp.'"

"We'd always thought of the 'ark' as a family program, especially for kids. But our previous time slot was 8:30—too late for youngsters. We should do better this time. If we come up with a good rating we'll start filming new sequences with the same cast."

"If it falls again we'll just forget the program and chalk it up to experience."

Prepares New Show
Jack needn't hand for the poor house if the "Ark" founders a second time. His "Dragnet" is now filming its seventh year and remains a top favorite. The crew-cut actor-producer-director also is preparing another series, "Pete Kelly's Blues," to make his debut
